Moderator:

Glen P. Mays, PhD, MPH, is the Director of the National Center for Public Health Services and Systems Research and the Public Health Practice-Based Research Networks (PBRN) Program, and is the Scutchfield Endowed Professor at the University of Kentucky College of Public Health. Dr. Mays' research focuses on strategies for organizing and financing public health services, preventive care, and chronic disease management for underserved populations. A graduate of Brown University, Dr. Mays earned a PhD and MPH in health policy and administration from the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, and completed a postdoctoral fellowship at Harvard Medical School's Department of Health Care Policy. Prior to joining UK, he held a faculty position at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences, and he was a senior health policy researcher at Mathematica Policy Research. glen.mays@uky.edu

Presenters:

Mary Ann Bates, MPP, is Deputy Director of J-PAL North America at MIT's Abdul Latif Jameel Poverty Action Lab. She worked closely with senior leadership on the launch of this newest regional office of J-PAL, which promotes the creation and use of rigorous evidence from randomized evaluations in North America. Prior to joining J-PAL North America, Ms. Bates was a Senior Policy Manager in J-PAL's Global Office, focused on international development. She led J-PAL's work in creating policy publications on J-PAL's research and worked with governments, NGOs, and development organizations to help them incorporate evidence from J-PAL's evaluations into policies. Ms. Bates brings experience working in Jordan, and she has conducted policy analysis for the California Legislative Analyst's Office. Ms. Bates holds a BA from Denison University, where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She holds a Master of Public Policy from the Goldman School of Public Policy at University of California-Berkeley, where she received the Richard and Rhoda Goldman Fellowship. mbates@mit.edu
